ARGENTINA

Enjoy the amazing sights of Iguazu Falls in the northernmost portion of Argentina, or take a journey to the End of the World aboard an Australis cruise and finally scratch it off your bucket list! If a more European experience is what you have in mind, spend some quality time in uber chic Buenos Aires, and find out why it's often called the "Paris of South America." Tango your way to an unforgettable experience.

Take a personalized tour of the famed Colon Theatre with our exclusive opera singer guide.

A tiny, English-speaking country on the Caribbean Coast of Central America, Belize is known primarily as a scuba diver's playground where crystalline turquoise waters conceal the world's second largest barrier reef system, countless shallows and a truly spectacular kaleidoscope of marine life. However, this diverse and culturally rich tropical oasis holds much more than just ocean-based adventure for the intrepid traveler.

Stay on a private island within snorkeling distance of the amazing barrier reef.

BRAZIL

They say everything is bigger in Texas, but that title really should go to Brazil! From the world's greatest waterfall, biggest wetlands and mightiest river, to its largest rainforest and one of the most unique and diverse cultures on the planet, Brazil is the largest country in South America and the most geographically diverse. Its abundance of activities, friendly people, UNESCO World Heritage sites, ecosystem and sparkling beaches are ideal for relaxation and intrepid exploration.

Experience the thrill of Rio's famed annual Carnival celebrations.

Home to natural wonders like the world's driest desert, the Atacama, the mysteriously wonderful Easter Island (AKA Rapa Nui), magical Torres del Paine Park and Patagonia, Chile ensures you'll never fall short of filling your days with wonderful new sights and sounds. Plus, Chile is a foodie heaven, boasting some of the best food and wine on Earth. You'll never want to leave!

Stay at the modern Viña VIK, and taste their exquisite 2009 Bordeaux-style blend.

COLOMBIA

Situated at the northernmost tip of South America and bordered by both the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, Colombia is an enigmatic country known primarily as the literary birthplace of magical realism, a romantic backdrop for the movie industry and an exporter of high quality coffee. But, Colombia is much more than what you've read in a book, seen on the big screen or sipped at the neighborhood cafe. It's a diverse country on the mend, boasting all the Latin American appeal a traveler could ever want.

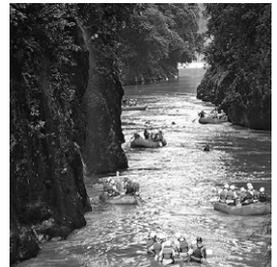

Taste premium coffee fresh from the source while learning how it's made.

Widely recognized as the world's foremost ecotourism destination, Costa Rica is a small but beautiful country with a truly dramatic landscape filled with natural wonders and diverse ecosystems. From vast stretches of Caribbean and Pacific coastline, wild rainforests and wide open savannas, to imposing mountains, lush river valleys and beguiling cloud forests, Costa Rica is a country that is as appealing to families and honeymooners as it is to luxury travelers and adventure seekers.

Raft the scenic Pacuare River en route to one of the world's top eco-lodges.

ECUADOR

Get in touch with your inner Darwin on the trip of a lifetime in Ecuador and the Galapagos Islands. We recommend island hopping aboard a plush yacht to experience all the natural splendor of this amazing country and consummate bucket list trip. Unrivaled by any, this magical chain of islands is home to some of the most fascinating natural beauty you'll ever see!

Experience a luxurious African style safari camp in the Galapagos Islands.

GUATEMALA

Only about the size of Tennessee or half the size of the United Kingdom, Guatemala somehow manages to pack quite a cultural and geographic punch. The sheer diversity of cultures and landscapes is enough to boggle the mind, yet this relatively small nation (often referred to as the “land of eternal spring”) ties it all together effortlessly. From ancient Maya archeological sites and Colonial Spanish cities, to vibrant Caribbean hamlets and misty Highland villages, Guatemala offers up a variety of one-of-a-kind experiences.

Climb one of the largest and most excavated of all the ancient Maya cities—Tikal.

PANAMA

Panama is a colorful melting pot as rich in cultural diversity as it is in landscapes and wildlife. While the beaches are idyllic and boast nearly 1,600 miles of coastline along both the Pacific and Caribbean, the country has much more than white sands, coral reefs and coconut trees. From rainforests, jungles and foggy cloud forests, to mountain highlands, mangrove swamps and even a desert, Panama offers up an ideal multi-destination vacation for most any style of traveler.

Set sail down the Panama Canal on board a private yacht.

Experience the seductive enchantment of Machu Picchu and the Sacred Valley of the Incas, embark on a Shaman-inspired cruise up the majestic Amazon or relax and revel in all the mystique Peru has to offer aboard an Belmond train. Plunge “full spoon ahead” into Peruvian cuisine, known for its exquisite taste as well as its variety and ability to seamlessly blend flavors from different times and cultures.

Savor the culinary creations of Peru's epicurean maestro— Gaston Acurio.

URUGUAY

Decidedly European and highly socially developed, Uruguay is home to more than three million citizens of primarily Southern European descent while also staking claim to the title of second smallest South American country. Although literally not large in stature, Uruguay more than makes up for its small size with its beach-lined coasts, verdant interior and generally high world rankings on democracy, personal rights and quality of living. So much so the Economist named it Country of the Year in 2013.

Attend an invite-only star-studded beach party on the shores of Punta del Este.
